

Act Limiting Powers of G&F Group Illegal

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court, in a 4-2 opinion, said today an act of the 1937 legislature limiting the powers of the State Game and Fish Commission was unconstitutional.

The decision knocked out the law which defined domestic fish as those spawned and raised in privately owned waters, and which said they could be sold as a matter of common right.

The question was raised in an appeal from Pulaski Chancery court by Raymond Farris consolidated with the appeal of Glynn Bailey.

"The majority of this court recognizes that appellants and other fish farmers own the game fish raised in their private waters, that this is a property right as much as any other distinct right," the opinion said.

"This is not, however, an unqualified and absolute right but is bounded by the limitation that it must always yield to the state's ownership and title, held for the purposes of regulation and preservation for the public use."

Hours of Fort Smith Firemen All Voided

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—The Arkansas Supreme Court held today that a 1937 law limiting Fort Smith firemen to 36 hours work per week is local and unconstitutional.

The opinion by Associate Justice George Rose Smith reversed and dismissed an appeal by members of the Fort Smith fire department for a writ of mandamus to compel the city commission to carry out the act.

The opinion said the legislation was local in nature, and there-

LITTLE ROCK (UP)—Two local Boy Scouts received certificates of Merit Sunday for lifesaving.

George G. Major Jr., 14, received his for saving the life of his cousin, Mary Nell Davison, in December, 1936. He caught the girl, 6 years old at the time, as she ran with her clothing on fire, then rolled her in the dirt to put out the flames.

Dannie Steele, 13, was given his certificate for helping save three Louisiana women when their car rolled into a stock pond from a roadside park near Sheridan last summer.

Willard F. Vickery, of Little Rock, assistant executive of the Quapaw Area Council, BSA, presented the awards.

GOPs Planning Retaliation On Truman

WASHINGTON (UP)—Republicans today trumpeted a massive retaliation against former President Truman's "give 'em hell" denunciation of the Eisenhower administration.

They charged that Truman in his Jefferson-Jackson Day speech here was guilty of "dime-a-dance oratory," forgetful about flaws in his own administration, insincere about civil rights and callous toward the unemployed.

A spokesman for the Republican National Committee confirmed that the almost unprecedented avalanche of mimeographed anti-Truman broadsides was somewhat coordinated from committee headquarters.

"We decided we should not stand for being belabored," he said. "We felt we couldn't just take this—we should answer him."

Led by GOP National Chairman Meade ALCorn, the Republicans charged Truman with raising a "red herring" and with uttering "typical Truman claptrap" wild and reckless charges "carrying petty criticism."

Many chided the former Democratic President for making his "untruthful" speech on the birthday of George Washington, "the man who never told a lie."

All defended President Eisenhower's defense, domestic and foreign policies. Most compared economic conditions in the past Roosevelt and Truman administrations unfavorably with conditions even in the current business slump.

The former President made his attack on the President and the GOP administration at a $100-a-plate Democratic fund-raising dinner here Saturday night.

In his best Republican-baiting form, Truman accused the administration of leading the nation into a "Republican recession" that threatens economic disaster, of weakening U.S. defenses, and of damaging the free world alliance in its handling of foreign policy.

New 'Kinsey' Type Report Has One of Every Ten Women Being Pregnant Before Marriage

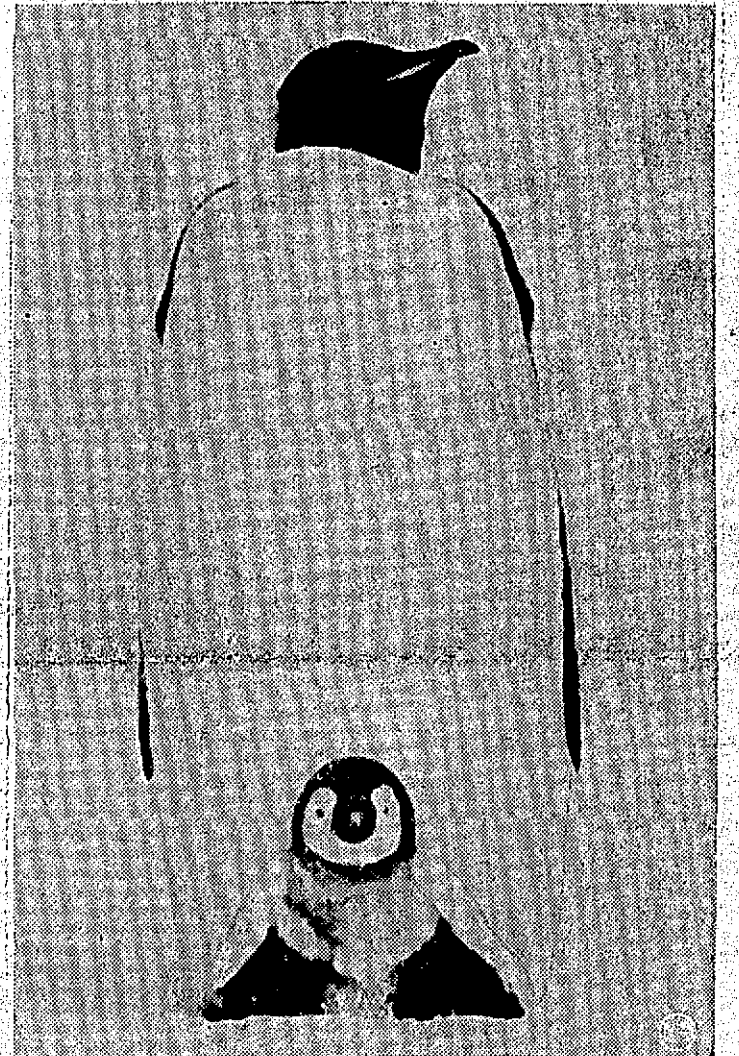

By DELOS SMITH
United Press Science Editor
NEW YORK (UP)—The newest "Kinsey Report" asserts that before American women of the upper class have lived out their "reproductive lives" one out of every 10 has been pregnant with-out at the same time being married.

However, this dilemma was resolved for most of these women by abortion when it was not resolved by hasty marriage. Here was added a statistic which will be no less shocking to many persons: Among women of child-bearing age now living one in seven has had or will have a premarital abortion.

The report is the first coming from the Institute of Sex Research at Indiana University since the death of its founder, Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey. Indeed, the first since publication of "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female" five years ago. The new report deals with the consequences of that behavior. It is called "Reproductive Lives and Abortion."

Three persons were injured, one critically, Sunday morning when a pickup truck and an auto collided on Highway 67, near the Arkansas State Police Station.

Charles E. McClure of Longview, Texas, suffered a severe chest injury. His wife, who is in a local hospital but not considered critically hurt, and a passenger in the car, Elmore Jordan, escaped with minor injuries.

Walter Jackson, Hope Negro, whose truck was involved in the wreck, escaped serious injury. A Herndon-Cornelius Ambulance brought the injured to a local hospital.

Officers said Jackson was turning left off the highway and the Texas car, driven by Mrs. McClure, swerved to miss the pickup, went out of control and rolled. Jordan was thrown completely out of the car, officers said.

State Policeman Guy Downing filed a charge of failure to give a hand signal against Jackson. The Texas vehicle was badly damaged.

GOP Drive to Oust Benson Gains Strength

WASHINGTON (UP)—Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb.) said today that a group of House Republicans seeking the resignation of Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson is picking up new recruits and hopes to present its case to President Eisenhower soon.

Miller said he expects word from the White House late today on his request that the President meet with five or six spokesmen for the "oust-Benson" group.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerly told reporters that Miller and other GOP congressmen seeking Benson's ouster do not have a scheduled meeting with the President this week.

Miller said GOP congressmen wanting Benson to resign now number about 40. About 30 participated in organizing the "Benson-must-go" drive last week.

A bluff that Eisenhower may reject the group's demand came when the President arranged to go to a meeting of the National Food Conference today with Benson. This could be interpreted as a display of support for the embattled secretary.

Miller said farm-state congressmen from Ohio, Indiana, Maine, Pennsylvania and New York new "want to be included" in sponsoring the delegation that will call on Eisenhower regarding Benson. The original group consisted of lawmakers from Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota, Kansas, and the Dakotas.

Miller did not identify the new recruits by name.

He said he was preparing "facts and figures" for the President on the decline in farm income. If Eisenhower "realizes what has happened," Miller said, he may be willing to accept Benson's resignation.

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), meanwhile, urged his state's Republican governor to join the "oust-Benson" drive.

Fertilizer, Soils Meet Here Thursday

Timing and placement of the right fertilizer for the crop and soil is most important in economical crop production, declared County Agent Oliver L. Adams today in announcing a soils and fertilizer meeting at the Hope City Hall on Thursday morning, Feb. 27 at 10 o'clock.

Woody Miloy, Extension Soil and Fertilizer Specialist, will discuss Experiment Station research showing the value of proper timing of the needed fertilizer correctly placed for the crop in question.

Mr. Miloy is expected to give consideration to the time of application of the fertilizer to fine textured soils, to medium textured soils, and to coarse soils, such as sands; where to place the fertilizer when applied at a moderate rate or at a heavy rate; how to use soil test information in determining what fertilizer to use on a particular field; the value of lime properly used where needed; and, the management of fields with a hardpan. Questions of producers in attendance will receive consideration.

Revival at Tabernacle Continues

For the third week, revival services continue at the Gospel Tabernacle under the ministry of the Rev. and Mrs. Jimmy Brown of Mobile, Alabama. The services begin each evening at 7:30 except Sunday.

The Evangelist has asked for continued prayer services to be conducted at the church at 10:00 a. m. and it is expected that this will do much to strengthen the spiritual tide. He says, "Revivals are more than just meetings, they are a supernatural move of the Spirit of God."

Mrs. Brown will continue the Children's Meetings at 7:00 p. m. They Land says this is one of the most outstanding meetings in the Church since he has been the pastor.

Super Highway to Be 38,548 Miles Long

CHICAGO (UP)—The total length of the new interstate system of highways will be 38,548 miles and the proposed construction has the men who lay the gas pipelines worried.

G. M. Williams, assistant commissioner for engineering, Bureau of Public Roads, Washington, revealed the figure today at the opening of the five-day convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

In an earlier talk, C. D. Richardson, of the Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp., Houston, Tex., said the pipeline industry could expect heavy costs for re-routing lines unless pipeline and highway engineers cooperate closely.

Williams explained the figure was based on reports from the 48 states and the District of Columbia. He said all the data has been placed on computer cards ready to feed to Congress when the time comes. Total cost will be $35,500,000,000, he said.

Richardson said that pipelines today carry gas and oil to every state in the union and that the gas pipeline industry is constantly expanding.

"In nearly all instances pipeline companies are reimbursed by the various highways departments for material and labor costs incurred in revamping pipeline facilities to accommodate highway construction," Richardson said.

Gas pipeline companies are also reimbursed for gas lost, he said. However, he added, "the sale price of gas which transmission companies are unable to deliver while their lines are out of service is never recoverable."

Rollin F. Agard, director of finance for the city of Kansas City, Mo., said in another link, there is little indication private capital will enter the field of airport development and operation.

"Like many other activities which local government has had to assume, the development and operation of airports came somewhat by default," he said.

Agard said private interests "seemed unwilling" to invest in the airports, the local government took the initial steps, and now the federal government has a "definite" interest in their development.

Unemployment Halt Soon, Official Says

WASHINGTON (UP)—A Labor Department spokesman said today the rise in U. S. unemployment may be coming to a halt—although it's too early to tell for sure.

Labor Secretary James P. Mitchell said earlier he believes the administration will recommend a tax cut if joblessness continues to climb next month. He said most cabinet members feel the same way.

However, Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson said only that his department has the question of a tax cut under constant study and review. He said he had not yet prepared any "package" proposal for a tax reduction.

A top Labor Department employment expert reported that new claims for unemployment benefits have been going down, although not as rapidly as usual this season as in recent years. He said claims for jobless benefits apparently "are not going any deeper" and the worst that can be expected now is that claims will level off at a "pretty high" level.

Mitchell said reports indicate about 4,700,000 Americans are jobless this month.

"It's hard to tell at this point whether we're going to start pulling out," the expert said, "but figures indicate we're not headed toward a depression-type nose-dive."

He added that it will be another six weeks or two months before the government can be sure that employment will pick up in the normal seasonal pattern.

FCC Probers Hear Denial of a 'Payoff'

By NEIL MacNEIL
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON (UP)—Thurman A. Whiteside, a Miami, Fla., attorney, told House investigators today that their ousted counsel, Bernard Schwartz, is "an unmitigated liar."

He said Schwartz bore "false witness" in accusing him of "laying off" Richard A. Mack, a Federal Communications Commission member, for Mack's vote in the FCC's award of a lucrative Miami television channel to National Airlines.

Schwartz, Whiteside said, "knew that he spoke a falsehood. He hears false witness and is an unmitigated liar."

Whiteside, a heavy-set man wearing a dark blue suit and blue silk tie, testified under oath before the House subcommittee on legislative oversight.

He said Schwartz knew he was giving perjured testimony when he told the subcommittee 10 days ago that Whiteside paid Mack at least $2,650 as a "payoff" in the Miami TV case.

Schwartz, he said, had information in his possession at the time which showed that the money was only a loan, that it was part of $7,830 he had loaned to Mack, a college classmate, at various times since April 20, 1950.

Mack said the total included a $1,000 loan on March 22, 1953, three months before Mack became a member of the FCC. Schwartz had testified in connection with this amount that he did not know whether Whiteside and Mack had a "pre-arrangement" on the TV case.

Mack voted to give the channel to a National Airlines subsidiary when the FCC overturned its own field examiners' recommendation that the channel be awarded to Col. Frank Katzenberg, a Miami radio station owner.

Whiteside also denied as "untrue" Schwartz' statement that he (Whiteside) was "employed" by National Airlines.

Whiteside was expected to be questioned for two or three days. Mack may testify on Thursday.

WASHINGTON (UP)—House investigators today called on attorney Thurman A. Whiteside to answer charges he gave FCC Commissioner Richard A. Mack a $2,650 "payoff" in the award of a Miami television channel.

The Coral Gables, Fla., lawyer represented National Airlines in its successful bid for the TV channel. Both he and Mack have claimed the $2,650 was in the form of loans, most of which have been paid back.

Leaders of both parties forecast quick Senate approval of President Eisenhower's request for a five billion dollar boost in the federal debt ceiling.

Senate Republican Leader Knowland accused the former president of using the "red herring" to divert attention from the debt ceiling.

Trouble Causes Atlas Missiles To Explode

SEATTLE, Wash. (UP)—Frank H. Bartholomew, president of the United Press, called Friday for development of the "generalist" rather than the specialist, as the ideal news reporter.

Bartholomew spoke at the 11th Annual All-Coast Press Clinic, sponsored by Pacific Slope School Press and University of Washington School of Communications.

Since the Russians fired their first satellite, he said, there has been more and more talk of a need for science specialists and for developing science teams to track down the professor in his laboratory and explain his work to the country.

"We in the U.P. do have to try to anticipate trends in national life and national thought, and to try to build a staff which will cope with these trends by the time they are fully established," he said.

"People outside the organization who try to help us with these things urge us to lay on scientific talent. There is merit in this thought, but also a drawback."

It is true that no one can talk to a scientist the way another scientist can. Bartholomew said, the material gathered for a news story must be written so the public will understand it. The expert may not be aware of what the reader does or does not already know, he said, and he may not recognize the real news in the development.

"What is it, then, that we, all of us, are looking for and hoping to find?" he asked.

"I don't think it's the specialist, except in a limited way, and even then, perhaps the specialty should be in a field apart from the man's primary training."

"I do think it's the generalist, the man who has dipped into most of the road streams of knowledge, and who has an abiding interest in them."

Would Not Be As Good

Bartholomew said that even if it were possible for every news gathering organization to maintain a staff of specialists in every scientific sub-category, it would not be as satisfactory as maintaining one able generalist who could handle any story.

"If I seem to dwell on this," he said, "it is that with the age of space upon us, we—and I fear the schools—are being urged to make every man a specialist."

"Ignoring science is perilous in these dangerous days. Ignoring the arts likewise imperils our whole culture. The times cry for balance. And balance is at the very core of the mature man, the man we are looking for."

Bartholomew called for development of newsmen who have been schooled in the broad fields of knowledge and at the same time are equipped with a firm grounding both in the fundamentals of the journalistic craft and in moral values.

List Characteristics

The deal news reporter has the following characteristics, Bartholomew said:

—An inquiring mind that looks into and beyond the evident facts, leaving no questions remaining to be asked.

—A full measure of skepticism or discernment that enables him to have a challenging mind without being obnoxious about it.

—Diligence and perseverance.

—"Bone deep" integrity that leads him to follow a story wherever it may go and standing behind it, even at professional and personal peril.

—The ability to reject a "cute angle" on a story if the angle is not quite there and the willingness to rectify and amplify if the job has not been well done.

—A sense of responsibility, the characteristic that mingles the entire profession, from copy boy to editor, demanding that news be sought out wherever it is, wherever it affects, without the influence of personal, political, religious, regional, or national prejudice or pride.

Bartholomew said he has some fears that the press, please, or "bandwagon," and the "spokesman" threaten journalistic diligence, integrity, skepticism and real courage.

"For a pause," he added, "we must be. Not for a pause. For facts and for the truth—and all of the truth."

Prescott Rotary Club Observes 53rd Birthday Anniversary

The birthday of the world wide fellowship of business and professional executives was celebrated by the local Rotary club at its meeting in the Broadway Hotel on Feb. 18th.

In commenting on the program Dr. Jack Harrell, president of the Rotary Club of Prescott, said: "Rotary Activities throughout the world are based on the same general objectives as those of our own club—the development of fellowship among business and professional men, the betterment of communities, leading boys and girls into good citizenship, the promotion of high standards in business and professions, and the advancement of international understanding, good will and peace."

"The one basic objective of Rotary," he said, "is its ideal of Service, which is to be thoughtful and helpful to others. To attain this objective, Rotary members seek all that which brings people together and avoids all that separates them. This is the reason why Rotary has become a world-wide institution, whose ideals have been accepted by men differing widely in language, customs, and historical backgrounds."

"The first Rotary Club was organized in Chicago, on Feb. 23, 1905 by Paul P. Harris, a young lawyer, who suggested the idea to a group of his friends. The name Rotary was selected because the first meetings of the club were held in rotation in the offices of its members. The Rotary ideals of friendship and service to others soon spread from city to city and to Canada and then crossed the ocean to every continent. Today Rotary is a world-wide service organization of more than 454,000 business and professional people who are members of 9,700 Rotary Clubs in 108 countries on six continents."

Rotarians.

President Harrell briefly outlined the history of the Rotary Club of Prescott which was organized in 1925 and which now has 38 members. In commenting on its activities he stated that true Rotarians meet and they eat at weekly luncheons or dinners—but their activities go far beyond these meetings. Rotarians are active in civic and community welfare work, in leading boys and girls into good citizenship, in the betterment of rural-urban understanding, in helping boys clubs and youth movements, and in many other useful activities.

The Rotary Club does not promote civic activities rightfully belonging to other organizations, but every Rotarian, as an individual, is urged to participate in all activities which make his community a better place in which to live.

Cuban Rebels Kidnap Auto Racer

By FRANCIS L. MCCARTHY
United Press Staff Correspondent
HAVANA, Cuba (UP)—Cuban rebels kidnaped Argentine auto racer Juan Manuel Fangio at gunpoint Sunday night in a daring raid aimed at embarrassing the government of President Fulgencio Batista.

Fangio, five times world auto racing champion, was marched out of a crowded lobby in a downtown hotel by two gunmen while his bodyguard and friends looked on helplessly. He was hustled into a jeep which raced off into the darkness.

Fangio's life was not believed in danger. The rebel underground had threatened to spoil Cuba's greatest sports event—today's $10,000 Grand Prix—but was not believed prepared to go so far as to harm Fangio.

Immediately after the kidnaping police set up roadblocks at all the main intersections and mounted special guards at all private and commercial airports. Guards also were assigned to all other foreign drivers competing in the race.

Race, To Go On
The government announced that the Grand Prix would go on as scheduled.

It assigned 1,500 army troops to the track to protect the drivers and prevent any rebel attempt to break up the race.

Fangio, who had been Batista's choice to win the Grand Prix over a 21-year-old Argentine, won last year's race and posted the fastest time in the trial runs Sunday.

The kidnaping had all the marks of a carefully planned operation. Eyewitnesses said Fangio's identification apparently was definitely established by a man who reeled into the lobby of the Lincoln Hotel shouting "Viva Fangio."

The man pushed his way through to Fangio and began telling the Argentine how much he admired him. Fangio gave the apparently drunken man a good-natured brushoff.

A few moments later, according to the witnesses, a man wearing a black leather jacket entered and walked directly up to Fangio, who was talking to four friends. The man pulled out a gun and said "Come with me." A second armed man fell in behind Fangio as he walked out of the lobby.

Rebels Identify Selves
A few minutes later, newspapers and news agencies received telephone calls from unidentified persons reporting the kidnaping. The caller said: "This is the 26th of July speaking. We

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman John L. McClellan said today he believes his Senate Rackets Committee will settle its dispute over procedure in time to open hearings on the violence-ridden Kohler strike Tuesday, as planned.

The Arkansas Democrat said a closed-door huddle to try to end the party-line squabble is scheduled for today.

At issue in the 4-4 split of the eight-member committee was whether Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, should be an early witness or wait until charges against his union have been spread on the record.

Prior to today's session all four committee Republicans opposed opening-day appearances by Reuther and Herbert Kohler, president of the Wisconsin plumbing fixture firm. Democrats backed the plan to have Kohler and Reuther head the witness list.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.) said he would propose that 20 to 30 witnesses with personal knowledge of what Mundt called "improper" activities present their testimony first. Persons named could ask to appear at once to answer any charges, Mundt explained.

But Democrats were understood to have opposed that plan when the committee deadlocked last Friday. Mundt argued his plan would follow the committee's precedents. Democrats replied there is precedent for hearing chief figures in a controversy first.

Reuther said he wanted to be a lead-off witness to present the union's case on the Kohler strike. He said he is sure the people, when they have heard the facts, will see that the company bears "full moral responsibility" for the dispute.

The face of optimism

Arkansas is wearing the face of optimism. Because Arkansas has so much more to be optimistic about now than 20 years ago: much improved air service... the new interstate highway program already under way... air conditioned buildings... the promised early development of the Arkansas River... expansion of the Southwest as a better market for Arkansas products... and, of course, the state's continuing industrial progress. Arkansas is smiling at the future—because the future is smiling at Arkansas.

President Is Back in Washington

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower came back to the nation's capital today from a 10-day vacation in Georgia and a 3-day round of golf in sunny Arizona.

His Arizona host-for-a-day said the President had such a good time Sunday he hopes to return in two weeks for a four-day visit.

The President flew home from Mountain, Ga., by way of Phoenix, Ariz., a trip of about 3,825 miles compared with 750 from Mountain to Washington — to drop Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower and two friends at a health and beauty resort.

He played 18 holes of golf at Phoenix, dined with Mrs. Eisenhower and went to bed aboard his personal plane Columbine III for a night trip home.

The Chief Executive cancelled because of his delayed return to the capital a long-standing date to greet a breakfast meeting today of the National Food Conference.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon was to appear for him, but an official of the conference said the President's cancellation was "a bad mistake" on the part of Eisenhower's advisers. The White House said Eisenhower "may" drop in on the conference later in the day.

In Phoenix, Eugene C. Pulliam, publisher of the Arizona Republic and Phoenix Gazette, with whom the President played golf, quoted Eisenhower as saying: "I haven't felt as good in six months as I do right now."

Pulliam said the President planned to do everything he can to re-arrange his schedule and return for a long weekend when Mrs. Eisenhower finishes what is expected visit at Elizabeth Arden's Maine Chance resort for women.

Charles B. Shuman, general manager of the breakfast meeting, and president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said the President's appearance had been arranged eight or nine months ago and added that he thought Eisenhower's advisers had "made a bad mistake" in cancelling it.

Man Rescued From a Well Cave-in CAMBRIDGE CITY, Ind. (UP)—Rescue workers digging carefully with spoons freed a 42-year-old man trapped for eight hours Sunday when a well cave-in buried him to his armpits.

The situation was so delicate that state police re-routed highway traffic away from the area for fear vibrations would loose more gravel on the nearly buried man.

Wilbur (Pete) Harold was caught 16 feet below the surface when the sides of the well caved in as he was digging for a broken drill point in the basement of his home in nearby East German town.

His helpers, Paul Stone and Park Sourbeer, alerted police and about 100 rescue workers rushed to the scene.

A barrel-like structure was placed over Harold to prevent him from being buried alive by falling gravel, and oxygen was administered throughout the long ordeal.

Because of the narrow size of the hole, only one man at a time could dig, and the cramped workman had to be relieved every half-hour.

The rescuers used a small spoon about four inches in diameter to painstakingly scoop away the gravel. The dirt was placed in a five-gallon can and hoisted to the top of the well. Concrete blocks which Harold had used to line the well collapsed in the cave-in and had to be removed.

Rescuers said Harold remained in good spirits throughout the operation. He was hospitalized for a check-up, but physicians said he apparently suffered no ill effects except for shock.

U. S., British in Space Age Pact

LONDON (UP)—The United States and Britain announced today conclusion of a space age pact for construction of four American nuclear missile bases in this country capable of blasting every major Soviet target in wartime.

The agreement was signed in Washington Saturday by U.S. Assistant Secretary of State Christian Herter and British Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia.

Publication of details was postponed until today to enable Britain's Defense Minister Duncan Sandys to announce them to Parliament.

This was the first pact concluded by the United States with one of its Atlantic Treaty Allies for construction of medium range missile bases with a 1,500 mile range in Western Europe.

The United States currently is negotiating a similar agreement with France.

Almost all U.S. Marines since 1945 have gotten their training on Pavlov's Island, a long island that lies off the coast of Charleston, S. C.

There's some good in everything. The waxy white fruit of poison ivy is food for more than 60 species of birds.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS YOUNG—People repair roofs every day, but few women of 75 clamber about on the slick surface of a housetop. For Mrs. Verdie Scott, above, of Midland, Tex., doing her own repairs is nothing new. She is a licensed plumber and does electrical work. These skills were developed through necessity. During World War II, Mrs. Scott and her late husband operated a tourist court. Mr. Scott was in bad health and they couldn't get help, so Mrs. Scott took on the patch-up chores. She's been doing her own carpentry, plumbing and electrical work ever since. With that mouthful of nails she looks like a professional carpenter.

Typical of the trend in home furnishings as reflected by the Winter Home Furnishings Market in Chicago is the room setting, above. Sofa in blue nylon stripe and chair in white nylon are deep and comfortable. Dining-table has pedestal base, brass-banded, plum-colored plastic top. Dacron-silk blend in two shades of blue is used in swag curtain; small, tile-topped tables carry out oriental theme, as does Chinese wallpaper design. Honeycombed, golden balls are lighting fixtures. DOROTHY DIX

Is Her Sparkle Wasted On Deadly Dull Hubby?

Dear Dorothy Dix: Three years ago, my daughter fell madly in love with and married a handsome young man — who didn't have any other quality to recommend him as a husband. June is pretty, poised, a witty talker, a good mixer, and very popular. He's just a dummy.

He can't talk to people, he hates strangers, is such a dullard that people avoid him. He can't even hold a decent job, and in his last period of unemployment June took a job, which has been her salvation. She'd be bored stiff if he had to stay home with Clyde all day. She is so polite to him, so considerate of him and so dead-end fed up with him that it breaks my heart. No use no to say "We told you so!" but what can we do?

SAD PARENTS

Dear S. P.: There's absolutely nothing you can do without being accused (and justly, I would say) of being interfering in-laws. Since your daughter is an intelligent girl who knows the ropes, I think she can handle the situation herself. A woman who is mated to a man of inferior intelligence, and a lesser capacity for making friends, is in a bad way. She can get companionship away from home without being accused of disloyalty. She watches her friends writhing in boredom where hubby remains aloof. Her time mind slowly wastes away from sheer inertia. Yet, in spite of everything, perhaps June loves Clyde and is perfectly willing to take the bitter with the sweet. She's a girl of strong character and may get responses from her prosaic mate. Let her work out her own salvation. I bet she can do it.

Dear Dorothy Dix: We like a boy at school who talks and jokes with us, but never asks us out. He'll be graduating in a few months and we'd like him to get interested before that.

MARYLYN & CAROLYN

Dear Girls: Wouldn't it be tragic if the boy did date one of you? It would break a lifelong friendship between you, and you know perfectly well he's not going to take both of you out. Look for twins.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm very much in love with Diane but am afraid she doesn't return my feelings. She says she's in love with me, but doesn't show it. She's especially distant in front of her friends. We were supposed to get engaged at Christmas but she postponed it for a reason that sounded corny to me.

PETE

Dear Pete: A girl in love is usually very proud of the fact and very happy to show it in a crowd — and she doesn't have to hang all over the boy to make it evident that she loves him. Either Diane isn't in love or she's an iceberg. If she continues to show reluctance about an engagement, look for a more responsive doll.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm a high school freshman. The other kids say I have a good personality, am a good sport, etc., but I don't get anywhere with the boys. I guess I'm too quiet. I've tried being loud like the popular girls, but it's awfully hard.

TINA

Russia Set Off Nuclear Blast Sunday

WASHINGTON (UP)—Russia exploded a large nuclear weapon Sunday, the U.S. government reported Sunday night. Japanese reports led to speculation it might have been an upper atmosphere or out-in-space test of an intercontinental missile with an H-bomb warhead.

The official U.S. announcement, like most previous American disclosures of Soviet nuclear blasts, was brief. "The one-paragraph statement said:

"Lewis L. Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, stated that the Soviets had conducted a nuclear weapons test today (Sunday) in Soviet territory. The yield of the test was in the megaton range." (A megaton is the equivalent of one million tons of TNT.)

The report did not indicate whether the test was atomic or hydrogen weapon.

Japanese scientists, who first reported word of the Red nuclear test, said later the device had the same power as a "new design" hydrogen bomb and Russians tested last Oct. 6.

The Soviet news agency Tass described the Oct. 6 blast as "carried out at great altitudes" and said the bomb was of "new design."

A major purpose of exploding an H-bomb in space, possibly above the earth's atmosphere, would be to dissipate its nuclear fallout and remove the hazard to populated areas. The United States, under pressure from Russia, India and others to cease nuclear tests, has been trying to perfect a "clean" H-bomb that would loose little if any radioactive fallout on the earth's surface.

avoid making any others is to be a copy-cat. You are Tina; not Ginny, or Joan or Jane. Make the most of the gifts you have and let the others keep their bashfulness. Perhaps you won't make friends by the bushel, but the ones you make you'll keep. That's the important thing.

UNEASY PEACE—In an armored car, members of Israel's Border Police moved up to a section of the boundary which separates the tiny nation from its Arab neighbors. Formed especially to stop infiltrators and smugglers, the force is trained in military tactics to safeguard the 500 miles of land border.

Sunday, the neighbors realized they hadn't seen the sister since the heavy snow began. They called police.

When they entered the house, police found the cats were running frantically around the house "as wild as rabbits." The kitchen and other rooms of the large blue-cop home were littered by the animals' desperate search for food.

The house was cold and there was no oil in the tank of the furnace.

They found Miss Cookson in the bathroom, clad in two overcoats clumped together with safety pins. The corner said she died of a heart attack about a week ago.

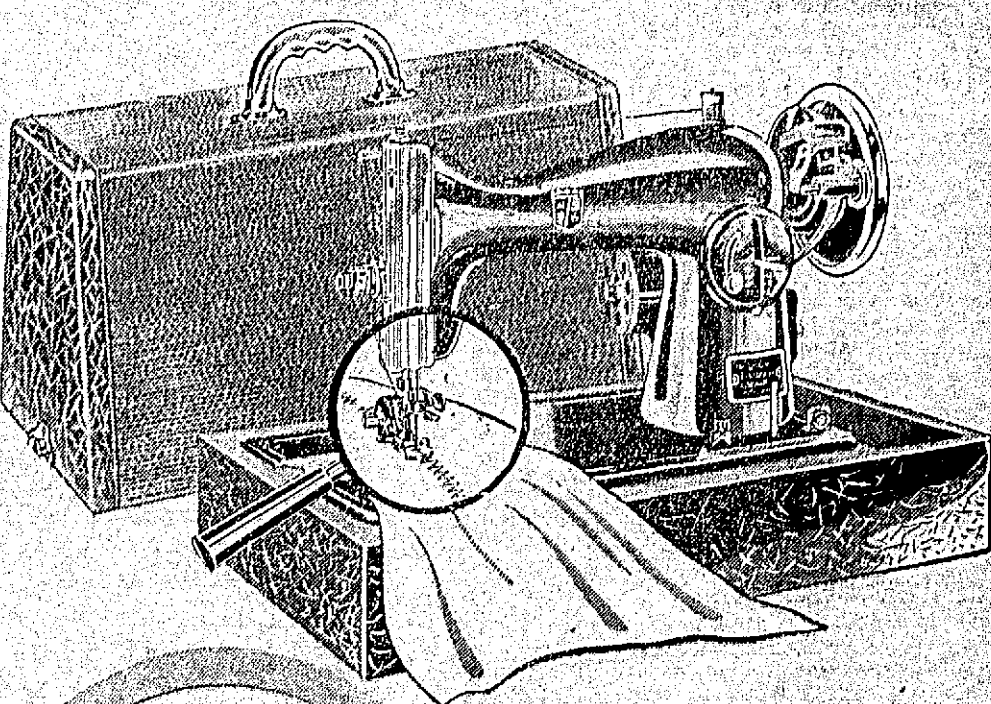

Mrs. Hyde, was found in her bed dead from heart failure and exposure. She apparently had lain there helplessly after her sister died.

The only living relative, Alice Cookson West, a cousin who lives in Spokane, Wash., has been notified by police.

Hope Favored to Capture Dist. 4 Meet

By UNITED PRESS
Now that the Big Eight has selected its standard bearers for the state basketball tournament, the State's Class AA division will do some selecting of its own in divisional tournaments at Smuckovet, Van Buren, Jonesboro and Malvern.

The win, place and show team in each of the four meets will enter the state Class AA-AAA tournament at Little Rock March 4-5.

Despite a dismal outlook for the Little Rock Central Tigers a week ago, the Bengals came through in good style when the chips were down. Otherwise, nobody was surprised at the other winners—Pine Bluff, Texarkana and Fort Smith.

Officials expect the presence of the home team Tigers of Central to boost attendance at the tournament at the Barton Coliseum.

Fayetteville and Van Buren have been seeded and given first-round byes in the 1AA meet starting Wednesday at Van Buren. Rodgers and Springdale and perhaps Subisco could easily finish in that order. Harrison should not be regarded too lightly, either. Rogers took last year's state Class A title.

Something on the order of the New York Yankees, Jonesboro can always be looked to as a potential winner and especially is this so in the Hurricane's own backyard. Height is about all they lack and the Hurricane has whipped Little Rock twice. Next should probably come Forrest City, Leachville and Stuttgart in that order.

If they falter, West Memphis, Newport or Helena might conceivably make the grade. But that's unlikely.

In the 3AA clash, the nod goes to Conway, Catholic High of Little Rock then Morrilton. If anybody else gets a slice of the cheese, it should be Benton, Russellville, Malvern and Jacksonville. The 3AA competitors will meet at Malvern starting Thursday.

Plans to allow first round losers to play in losers' bracket and be eligible for third place were shelved by the Arkansas Athletic Association. The AAA decided such a plan tended toward being a double elimination tournament. Such set-ups argue against rules of the association.

So as result, the semifinal losers will still have a chance at third spot but first round losers will be through.

In the 4AA division, it's natural. Hope, which on the basis of its proficiency on the court with Big 8 champ Texarkana, was given a first round bye.

After Hope, Rogers and Magnolia and Arkadelphia come next. Smuckovet and Crossett could make it. Camden brings up the rear as a real long shot.

The Boston Celtics clinched at least a tie for their second straight Eastern Division crown in the National Basketball Association — and appropriately, Bob Cousy was the chap who did the clinching.

Cousy whipped in four straight baskets in the closing minutes Sunday to give the Celtics a 99-97 victory over the Philadelphia Warriors at Providence, R. I. Cousy, hampered by an injured leg much of this season, put on one of his old-time shows with a game-high of 30 points.

The second-place Syracuse Nationals stayed technically alive in the race by beating St. Louis 101-92. In the only other league game, the Cincinnati Royals beat Minneapolis, 111-93, to snap a six-game losing streak.

This was Coach Wanda Carroll's first year at Manila, and her team won 20 and lost 1. She coached 2 years at Malden, Missouri. In 1951, Wanda was on the Monette team that won 30 and lost 3 and went to the semi-finals in the state tournament. She graduated from Arkansas State Teachers College in Conway.

This was the Manila girls first district and state victory.
Coach Merle Henry of Monette, who coached the girls to the finals of the state, is actually the senior boys "B" team coach. Regular senior girls and boys coach, Bill Bishop, was at the District 3 senior boys tournament, while his girls were here in the state.

Coach Carroll and Coach Henry grew up together in Black Oak, Arkansas which is 16 miles from Manila. Wanda still lives there.

Manila forwards have a 60% average for the season on field goals and 78% average for free throws. Their season total point average is 63 points.

Manila cheerleaders are: Kathleen Masters, Rachel Wagner, Martha Lawhorn, Deanna Jackson, Janice Bacon and Talina Davidson. All in all, it was a very successful year, as everyone can testify with it was completely exhausted when it was over.

THE STORY: Detective Whitt's wife Mary, who doesn't like being the wife of a policeman, has accepted an invitation to a bridge party. However, Whittine now must appear at night court and he must break the news to his wife.

Chapter XII

Mary opened the door, a couple of bags in her arms. She looked tired in a neat gray suit that was the right contrast for her bright blond hair.

"She blew a kiss at me as she said, 'Hello, hon,' dropped the packages on the couch, then took off her coat and high heels, pushed the Chinese screen out of the way and started things cooking. 'I've had a hard day. Did you get a chance to call Uncle Frank'?"

"Ah, probably see him tomorrow."

"Well," she sat down on the couch and began to undress. "It's so sticky. I hope this isn't the start of a bad summer. All I could think about this afternoon was a shower. Are you starved? I want a quick shower first."

"I'm not starved but I want to rest soon."

"Don will probably have a lot of stuff to eat. He's always talking about picking up foreign money. I got chopped meat and peas for supper. How is Uncle Frank?" She stuck out one hand for a quick handshake.

"Don't forget the usual. I hope to have to take a bunk to night court for arraignment with my uncle. Tell me the old bridge square so I said, "Too warm for hard stuff. Got a beer handy?"

Grace, Don's wife, who really filled her black and gold socks, gave me a can of beer and a kind of bottomless cup that fitted over the top of the can. She said, "Now you won't need a glass."

"I smiled. 'I wouldn't have needed a glass anyway. Thank you.'"

"This way the flavor of the beer isn't lost by pouring it out of the can," Don told me. Seemed like they'd given a lot of thought to something as simple as beer drinking. Then he told everybody, "Fellow I went to Yale with and who works for a Chicago agency, wrote me one of their clients is working on a paper beer container. Has some kind of keg lining to improve the flavor, I believe."

Everybody except me started talking about this. I was waiting to play bridge. Half the time I didn't even know what they were talking about. They had pet words they all liked to mouth: "the cost-level," or something was "sales," wise," or had a "built-in selling point."

Still they all looked like nice bright people and I sipped my beer, which only made me sweat more, and glanced at myself in a wall mirror to see if my shirt looked wilted, and listened. About a half-hour later they finally got the cards out.

We were on the second rubber when a fellow at the other table stood up and took off his coat, saying, "Does anybody mind? Getting rather warm in here."

"You are," Don said. "You mean you stood on your head here? Anybody feel worse, stop. And that goes for the ladies too. He looked at his snappy, dark-colored sport coat and opened his yellow waistcoat.

Pro Golf Has Financial Troubles

TODAY'S SPORT PARADE (Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.) By OSCAR FRALEY United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UP)— The pro golf brigade is having cash and carry troubles today.

The carry difficulty is that there has been a rash of extra clubs in the fairway luggage, players unconsciously exceeding the 14-club limit. This, in turn, causes a deficit in the cash they could have been carrying.

The Tucson Open provided a startling example of the absent-mindedness of those who line their wallets with a wedge.

Six players suffered penalties in the Tucson event, four of them because of too many clubs. The penalty is two strokes per hole for each extra club being carried. It can get expensive.

Milton Marquis of Webster Groves, Mo., carried a surplus wedge in his bag for two holes before he discovered the extra. It cost him four shots, and you just don't give away that kind of scoring mileage on the pro circuit and wind up with a big slice of pie.

In the same round, Bill Ogden of Chicago was packing an extra putter. He didn't discover the blunder until he had played 10 holes. The price was 20 strokes—transforming a fine 67 into a horrible 87.

Tony Holquin of Midlothian, Ill., was penalized two shots for having an extra club in his satchel. Tony didn't know how it got there and he made certain it wouldn't be there any more. He broke it over his knee. But the two-stroke penalty meant he failed to qualify for the final 36 holes.

You think that's bad. Well, Art Berry of Detroit didn't discover he had 15 clubs in his bag until he had finished his round. His 82 was enough to make any pro feel bad. But when they got done adding 36 shots penalty — and he had a nice fat 118 — Berry was completely crushed.

Penalties were a dime a dozen at Tucson. Pete Mazur of Buffalo started off with an eagle by holing a wedge shot, but gave them back on the 10th by playing the wrong ball. And Bill Boone, the former Yale placekicker, knocked a shot into a tree and suffered a two-stroke penalty when the ball rebounded and struck his bag.

Penalties are the bane of golfer's career, and crop up with unexpected frequency.

Jackie Pung got more attention losing the U.S. Women's Open last summer than she would have in winning it. She signed a faulty score card and was disqualified. Betty Rawls, who suffered a crippling penalty the year before this got even a year later by backing in.

But Babe Lichardus of Hillside, N.J., found a new way to make a par in the Phoenix Open. He drove the green on the 290-yard fifth hole and canned it for an eagle two — but the caddy "froze" on the stick and the ball hit the flagstick and dropped in.

"It is," observed Babe, "a tough way to make pars."

waiting for a boy on a couple of air conditioning units and when I was dumpy I peeped off my coat. As I sat down there was a sudden silence in the room, except for light snores of the lurch on the couch. There wasn't even the small noises of the cards. It was sort of a shocked silence. Mary was staring at me, her mouth open, hard. In fact everybody was looking at me, including the four people at the other table.

I casually glanced down at my pants, at my shirt and tie — nothing was open or dirty. Mary was really burning, her face flushed. Glancing around I asked brightly, "I make a funny noise or something?"

Don pointed a slender finger at my shoulder holster and said, "Guess this is the first time any of us have seen a real gun. I assume that's a real gun."

Surprised, I'm a cop, Detective third grade."

Businessmen cannot afford to speculate with advertising. When they buy newspaper space they can make their investments on the strength of circulation facts and figures that are verified.
